Letter to
New York

Rev. J. M. Finley

Care of
Rev. J. F. Wright

Dear Bro Finley

I think my visit to New York will exert a good influence in several respects.

A majority of the bishops present were in favour of our construction of the paragraphs in relation to the Western Book Concern.

They established a treasury of the missionary society in Cincinnati so that draughts on the West can be paid in such money as we Can collect in the west, and so save the difference in the exchange.

Bishop Doane will likely inform you of many things in relation to aboli-tionism and other matters of interest to you.

I ascertained that the price of a fine steel plate engraving of your portrait will be one hundred dollars.
Copper plate $50. I made no engagement not knowing that the terms would be satisfactory to you.

Bro. Mason suggested that yours ought to be on steel & and that wood cut likenesses would answer for Monuments and between the logs as well as ^{some} other ancient antiquities.

Next Monday I have to start to leading the pits
-burgh conference.

Yours affectionately
J. F. Wright
